Development of the “Free and Open Indo-Pacific” vision

Context

- In August 2016, then Prime Minister ABE unveiled the “Free and Open Indo-Pacific” (FOIP) concept in his keynote address at the Sixth Tokyo International Conference on African Development (TICAD VI) in Kenya
- Japan’s fundamental aim is to foster regional stability and prosperity by improving connectivity between Asia and Africa through a free and open Indo-Pacific region

Basic concepts of FOIP

- The Indo-Pacific region is at the core of world vitality and is home to half the world’s population; realizing the stable and autonomous development of this region is crucial for the stability and prosperity of the world
- The vision of a “Free and Open Indo-Pacific” has its goal to facilitate free and vigorous economic activities throughout the Indo-Pacific region and aims to realize prosperity for the entire region

Three pillars of FOIP

- ① Promotion and establishment of the rule of law, freedom of navigation, free trade
- ② Pursuit of economic prosperity (e.g. improving connectivity)
- ③ Commitment to peace and stability

Japan is pursuing the FOIP vision through a coordinated, whole-of-government approach

Characteristics of the Indo-Pacific region

- The Indo-Pacific region is at the core of the world vitality, and home to half the world's population
- As many key sea lanes transit the Indo-Pacific area, regional stability is essential to Japan's continued security and prosperity
- On the other hand, a range of challenges exist in the region, including a rapid modernization of military forces and intensified military activities
- Countries in the region are taking steps to respond to this rapid change in the security environment

Aspects of Japan Ministry of Defense (JMOD)'s approach

- Securing the stable use of major sea lanes by way of defense cooperation and exchange activities
- Preventing contingencies through confidence building and mutual understanding
- Contributing to peace and stability through engagement in the region, in cooperation with partner countries

Broadening the FOIP vision

- The U.S., Australia, ASEAN, India and European countries such as the UK, France, Germany and Netherlands, and also the European Union (EU) have announced their own regional initiatives that are consistent with Japan's FOIP vision
- Japan will continue to promote cooperation with all countries that endorse the vision of FOIP

Development of Capacity Building

Capacity building programs

Capacity building programs aim to improve the capabilities of recipient countries, and to help their military forces broaden the roles they can play in order to further contribute to international peace and regional stability.

Specific activities: ♦ Seminars and field training ♦ Opinion exchanges and provision of technical guidance ♦ Observation of education and training programs

Development and achievements to date

The JMOD/JSDF began to provide capacity building for military forces in the Indo-Pacific region in 2012. Since then, more than 700 JSDF personnel have deployed as trainers, and about 5,400 foreign personnel have received capacity building training.

Japan is also cooperating with partner countries, such as the U.S. and Australia — that possess diverse capabilities — to effectively implement capacity building programs.

Scope continues to grow

	FY 2012	Deepened and expanded →	FY 2021
Recipients	5 countries		15 countries + 1 organization

Defense Cooperation and Exchange during the COVID-19 pandemic

Conducted ministerial-level meetings with 26 countries (green highlight) and NATO from Apr 2020 to Mar 2021.

- Although in-person visits to various countries have become difficult since the spread of COVID-19, defense cooperation and exchanges have been actively conducted through methods such as high-level telephone talks and video teleconference, bilateral/multilateral maritime exercises which do not involve contact with other people, and capacity building through online education.
- It has been pointed out that strategic competition may become more exposed and intense among countries intending to create international and regional orders more preferable to themselves and to expand their influence. Japan will promote defense cooperation and exchanges to uphold and reinforce FOIP in cooperation with other nations with which we share values and interests.
